I've been working on a new tool at the moment and wanted to share it. It allows users to quickly create responsive websites by simply dragging and dropping elements from the page layout you want. It's still early in development but we have some really exciting plans for improving the tool. We're always looking for feedback on how we can make Reflow better. Q: Rails: is there a way to use raw query in model? I'd like to know how to write a query in a model
