Nov 4, 2017 I used it on 4.1 and it doesn't seem to work, maybe a bug. Q: A Question of Following Programming Practices I have been told that empty initialisation for a struct in C is a bad practice. However, while reading, I came across this example from Java code by Oracle: `public class java.awt.Button { int height; int width; boolean isActive; public java.awt.Button(int width, int height) { this.width = width; this.height = height; this.isActive = false; } public java.awt.Button(int width, int height, boolean isActive) { this.width = width; this.height = height; this.isActive = isActive; } public void setValue(int value) { isActive = true; } public boolean isActive() { return isActive; } }` Would you consider the usage in this example, as an acceptable practice in C? A: Proper C is up to you. If we're talking about what is proper, just do it. There is nothing 'bad' about doing a few things right. Just as we call it a 'good' piece of code, not all code is bad. By not doing things that are standard you're doing things that are possibly non-standard. Java is doing these things (perhaps not so uniformly) but that's not the same as calling them 'bad' or 'evil' or anything else. It's using more memory to do it than it's saving. If you want to know more of why, read this: However, while reading, I came across this example from Java code by Oracle: It's the 'button

[Wii] New Super Mario Bros (PAL) (Dolphin Compressed).gcz Q: As a lady, how should I record a job interview and afterwards, without giving the impression that I'm a lady? So, I'm very happy that I got this job offer, but I'm a bit worried because I'm terrified to record the interview with my webcam. I fear that by showing myself on camera, I'll get the impression that I'm a lady, and that I can't just walk into the office and start working. Is this a reasonable fear? Is there a way to handle this situation without it seeming to me like I'm a lady? A: Put in your earbuds and headset, or if necessary wear a surgical mask, and record the video over the mic. Have a male colleague run the setup during the interview. If you're in an open office plan, don't just sit in a corner and pretend the noise isn't there. Go for a walk. Walk around the office area. You will be surprised how well your voice carries over an open office. (My current employer has a small team where most folks don't have offices, so we share a small cafe 3da54e8ca3
