New dXCI Technology Powered by dRISE, for the best visuals on consoles With all four brand new motion capture suits, you can play through an extended entire football match with any of 22 players and with the new goalkeeper suits, you can experience the most realistic goalkeeper movement in the history of football games. The best-looking visuals available on PlayStation4 and Xbox One "There was a time when motion capture was still a novelty and there was no way to properly represent the true, six-dimensional motion of a player," says Christoph Hartmann, Creative Director of EA SPORTS FIFA and FIFA franchise. "For FIFA, this is the most important thing that we have changed for the better. Every motion, every tackle and every step has real depth, and players are now perfectly modeled in every aspect. These new tools give players a whole new experience to play and train. Players of every level will notice that the game is the most realistic and fun experience on any console. "We've pushed FIFA to the next level in terms of simulation, gameplay and quality of player models," said Andrew Benson, Executive Producer, EA SPORTS FIFA. "We're making gameplay faster, more responsive and more challenging than ever, with the help of the technology we've developed in FIFA. New motion capture suit technologies, in particular, is able to deliver more realism and authenticity. We're incredibly proud to bring players this great experience on PS4 and Xbox One. In addition to creating and adding a new generation of motion capture suits, we've also created the most vivid and detailed game pitch ever seen in a FIFA game.
