Web Accelerator has a special technology that finds inefficient and unnecessary items in your code and searches in the web for useful components. It then downloads them and takes care of compiling them and loading them on demand, dramatically accelerating your site. The program is designed for any type of website: shopping, informational, personal, etc. Additionally, it can create a backup of your current page. Web Accelerator isn't just a tool for making websites faster. You can use it to make your site leaner, loading a lot of unnecessary items and components. Web Accelerator will recommend you the most popular components that you could use to decrease the load time of your site. It will consider third-party libraries, other users websites and the programming language you have in your site. If you want a fast site, you must implement a technique for accelerating your pages. If you want to load an already-mixed up site on high-speed internet, then take advantage of this tool to find the best components. Web Accelerator is available in two versions. It is free for non-commercial websites (commercial websites are supported on a fee basis).
